About the seminar

Lawyers from key Asian jurisdictions will discuss the 'Doing Business' environment in their jurisdictions, covering for example, legal and regulatory framework and requirements for foreign businesses, state or governmental agencies or bodies to be taken note of, laws governing entry and establishment of businesses, immigration requirements for businesses, any restriction as to foreign ownership of businesses, ownership of landed property by foreigners, ability of foreign lawyer to advise, practice or accompany their foreign clients and any particular programs or initiatives by the government to encourage foreign investments.

To this will be added further information from other Asian jurisdictions that will focus primarily on mobility of lawyers as it relates to regulatory conditions for foreign lawyers and a session on Asian-European business relations.

About LAWASIA

As the Law Association for Asia and the Pacific, LAWASIA brings together under a regional umbrella, the peak bodies representing lawyers of the ESCAP region and individual members of the legal community from around the world.

In this capacity, LAWASIA has, over almost fifty years, operated as a platform to promote cross-jurisdictional exchanges of legal information and education, as a voice of the legal profession and as a conduit for encouraging adherence to commonly shared principles of rule of law, high standards in legal practice and protection of human rights.

Through its linkages to over 40 member organisations, LAWASIA has exposure to a collective membership of over 1 million lawyers worldwide.
